

An early-17th century French open armchair with later green velvet upholstery

Sold

Description

The rectangular back and seat reupholstered in antique green velvet. The barley-twist turned arms ending in blocks faced with a geometric moulding. The barley-twist turned front legs joined by similarly turned front and central stretchers and side stretchers. The front legs terminating in ball feet and the back legs straight. Excellent colour and patina.